Waukesha chocolatier indulges in new truffles

Indulgence Chocolatiers in Waukesha has a new line of molded truffles in flavors the chocolate-makers call "adventurous."

The choices in the Chocolatiers Selection include limoncello-esspresso, Thai peanut butter, balsamic fig, vanilla bean crème fraîche, bananas foster, Cabernet, 70% single origin Sao Thome, Parmesan crisp and coconut habañoero.

Indulgence also has two new chocolate bars in its line: a dark chocolate sea salt and a dark chocolate cranberry pumpkin seed.

The truffles are sold at some retail stores or online at www.indulgencechocolatiers.com. The bars are online and at several stores, including Sendik's, Outpost Foods, Wisconsin Cheese Mart, V. Richards and Vino 100, among others.

Journal Sentinel food staff wants your holiday cookies

We are still accepting entries to the Journal Sentinel Holiday Cookie Contest. Bring 18 cookies in a disposable package, between 6:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, to the lobby of our downtown offices, 333 W. State St. The top three finishers get cash ($100, $50 and $25) and prizes, including tickets to next year's Wine & Dine Wisconsin.

Include with your entry your name, address, phone number and the recipe copied to a CD, flash drive or e-mailed to Food Editor Nancy Stohs, nstohs@journal sentinel.com.

SHARE taking holiday dinner orders

Milwaukee's SHARE program is accepting orders through Nov. 2 for a Thanksgiving dinner package that includes a 12- to 14-pound turkey, stuffing, cranberry sauce, an 8-inch pumpkin pie and fresh seasonal produce. Recognizing that many families continue to struggle economically, SHARE is selling the food packages at last year's price - $25. Families should order packages at www.sharewi.org or by calling (800) 548-2124 and pick them up by Nov. 20.

Orders for the Christmas dinner package of a 6-pound boneless honey ham, canned pineapple, corn soufflé, an 8-inch apple pie and fresh seasonal produce will be accepted through Nov. 30 for pickup on Dec. 18.
